Location	The town of Königsbrunn is located just 7 kilometers south of Augsburg, directly along the historic Via Claudia Augusta and today's B17 highway. Its main road provides a direct route south to northern Italy and north to Augsburg.
Design	The architecture of Restaurant Cervus is defined by four key materials: water, wood, natural stone, and glass. Together, they create a welcoming atmosphere that fosters both comfort and curiosity. A distinctive feature is the use of hops, which appear in various areas of the restaurant, adding a unique touch. Light, natural wood contributes to a warm and cozy ambiance, while the element of water is subtly reflected through blue accents, glass details, and curved shapes. The interior is further enriched with warm earth and sand tones, creating a harmonious and inviting setting. A well-designed lighting concept highlights the architectural details and unique features of each space, enhancing the overall experience. In essence, the design of Restaurant Cervus is a sophisticated fusion of Bavarian coziness and modern, stylish elegance.
